

Who we are

Global Recoveries Limited is a unique business to business service, assisting companies owed money abroad.

Costas Andrea, the Managing Director of GRL, has lectured internationally on recoveries abroad and has written numerous published articles on the subject. He has been a consultant to the BBC and Holiday Which? magazine. Although GRL is not a legal practice, our clients benefit from the 20 years Costas Andrea spent as a lawyer, recognised as a leader in the field of international litigation and travel & tourism and someone who has successfully litigated in many jurisdictions worldwide.

We are recognised as industry leaders, providing unique, cost free and risk free solutions to our business clients' debt problems. It is because of the alternative to having to use lawyers that GRL's service has proved so successful. If lawyers have to be used, GRL still provide a cost and risk free solution.

Of course, other companies offer a "no win, no fee" service. However, that stops when you have to litigate for your money. The GRL model works once legal proceedings have to be issued too; we do not just pass on our clients to lawyers. At GRL, we see the process through to the end on the same basis as our clients first instructed us.

Most of all, however, we are businessmen who understand the importance and economics of running a profitable company.
